

Coronavirus (COVID-19) Policy

Yorkshire Rubber Linings Ltd are closely monitoring the developments of the coronavirus outbreak and are continually assessing how this may have an impact on our business. We have put in place contingency plans across our supply chain and internally to ensure continued supply to our customers as well as the well-being of our staff.

Supply chain:

We have obtained confirmation from our suppliers of the corporate resilience planning they have put in place, including any high-level risks that may directly affect us and their estimated timeframes and solutions. We can confirm that we currently have no concerns with continuity of supply. However, disruption is likely over the next weeks or months due to the extremely fast-moving nature of the situation. We are in close communication with our suppliers to ensure that we have the latest information on any such capacity or supply issues.

Personnel:

We are continually monitoring the UK Government advice and our local situation to provide appropriate guidance to our workforce to safeguard their health and well-being. Our personnel have not travelled to any of the restricted areas within the indicated timeframe and, as far as we are aware, have not come into direct contact with any affected individuals. All employees are following our own internal requirements to avoid cross contamination, this includes the wearing of face masks and keeping minimum of two metre of social distancing.

Visitors and meetings:

Only authorised persons can enter our premises; this is restricted to: employees, and planned visitors and subcontractors who are screened through a self-declaration form. Couriers are subject to a minimum of two metre of social distancing. We have also limited our business travel activities to minimise risks, with virtual conferencing the preferred communication method in the interim.

Mitigation of supply issues and shortages:

Whilst we are doing all we can to maintain both raw material supply and production, our customers can also take steps to ensure continuity of supply.

We recommend that any known demand of a product is placed as a forward order with us two- to three-months ahead of requirement.

This will help us and our suppliers to plan effectively and to take additional measures where necessary to ensure continuity and robustness of our supply chain.

If you have any questions, please ask via your usual contacts. Should that person be unavailable, we will have cover in place for all incoming channels.
